Description

Designer was faced with a homeowner who had a contemporary single family home in Denver. Theirs was a family with a husband and wife of two daughters, where the dad wanted his office to be masculine and dramatic but still modern. He knew he wanted a solid color for a more sleek feel instead of a woodgrain, but still some traditional elements with the shaker doors.

His comment after install was thank you for helping put a special mark on our home. They considered a painted wall unit, but were pleased with the durability, color and price point offered with the Mysterious material.
